

Shari Repinski

CEO and ED, Rocky Mountain Human Services Serving Denver County and the Denver Metro Area

Shari is the CEO/Executive Director of Rocky Mountain Human Services since 2015. RMHS is the Community Centered Board for Denver and the Single Entry Point for 5 metro-area counties, along with several additional federal, state, and local human services programs. She has worked in the service delivery system for persons with developmental disabilities since 1986. Early experience includes working with children and adolescents with developmental disabilities in residential settings, conducting serious incident investigations, developing and implementing a quality assurance system for services, and administering a residential program for adults with developmental disabilities. Shari spent over 10 years working at the Colorado Department of Human Services/Division for Developmental Disabilities administering the Medicaid HCBS waivers for persons with developmental disabilities. During that time, she developed and administered Medicaid programs, managed the quality assurance system, served as a technical advisor, and promulgated Rules and Regulations. Shari has a Master's degree in Community Counseling with specific training in acute psychiatric treatment and crisis counseling and a Master of Business Administration in Strategic Management.
