

State of Colorado

The Senate and House of Representatives

Convened in the Second Session of the Seventy-Fourth General Assembly

Hereby extends heartiest congratulations and commendation to:

People with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities

On the occasion of IDD Awareness Day, we extend our recognition that people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) are defined by their strengths, abilities, and inherent value. With appropriate resources, services, and personalized supports, they make decisions about their own lives and contribute to their communities. Community living is a fundamental moral, civil, and constitutional right for people with IDD.

IDD advocates, advocacy organizations, clinicians, researchers, policy analysts, community-based service providers, case managers, and direct support professionals work in partnership with people with IDD, parents, families, the legislature, and state agencies to strengthen the service delivery system so people can live productive, healthy lives in the community.

We encourage all Colorado to support their efforts and recognize this day of awareness.

*On request of Senators Rachel Zenzinger & Rod Pelton and
